SignalLoop buyer math
Launch sits below AiSDR Solo and includes three users, while keeping channel consumption visible.

eCRM buyer math
Ten HubSpot Sales Professional seats are $1,000/month plus required onboarding.

Positioning
Sell governed execution and workflow ownership, not an unlimited-volume AI SDR claim.

Recommended entry offer: SignalLoop Launch at $199/month and eCRM Team Cell at $399/month. Month-to-month is 15% higher. A 30-day paid pilot may be credited toward setup on annual conversion.

Where eCRM sits
Ten Zoho Enterprise seats are ₹24,000/month; Team Cell is below that benchmark.

Why SignalLoop wins
Launch is priced well below imported autonomous SDR offers before currency and provider spend.

Provider posture
Tenant-owned approved provider accounts keep communication spend transparent.

Recommended entry offer: SignalLoop Launch at ₹9,900/month and eCRM Team Cell at ₹19,900/month. Use a paid pilot credited toward setup, not a permanent free tier.

Official sources: zoho.com/crm/zohocrm-pricing.html · kylas.io/pricing · aisdr.com/pricing · salesforge.ai/pricing · legal.hubspot.com/hubspot-product-and-services-catalog. GST and consumption excluded.

Price the job. Meter the consumption.

Bill published production workers with distinct jobs, permissions, knowledge, workflows and monitoring. Do not bill drafts, disabled agents, tests, language variants, voices or personas separately.

Competitive hybrid model

Include productive agent capacity in every SignalLoop tier, then charge for additional deployed workers. Keep model and channel consumption metered.

Platform + production agents + waterfall data credits + provider usage

Market signal

AiSDR starts at $250/month; Agent Frank is $499/month; HubSpot's prospecting agent consumes 100 credits per lead. SignalLoop should lead with transparent capacity, not hidden usage.

Commercial guardrails

- Keep separate SKUs, entitlements, data boundaries and termination rights.
- Apply discounts only to recurring software, never setup, usage, cloud or services.
- Use annual commitments; month-to-month is 15% higher.
- Never promise unlimited voice, SMS, WhatsApp, email, storage, models or engineering.
- Publish Enterprise only as "from" until operating evidence supports firm limits.
- Review tenant gross margin monthly and adjust envelopes at renewal.

Commercial recommendation, not a binding quotation. Final offers require current provider rates, taxes, support scope, hosting topology, data requirements and production-readiness review.
